

REED EXPOSITIONS FRANCE maintains security measures at all its exhibition sites, their entrances and exits.

Paris, September 1st 2016 – REED EXPOSITIONS FRANCE is continuing the initiatives it has undertaken since November 2015 to provide for the security and safety of those taking part in Reed events. The security measures throughout the exhibition sites, their entrances and exits, having already been stepped up, are now being prolonged.

Within the framework of France's national security alert system for autumn 2016, REED EXPOSITIONS FRANCE will continue, in coordination with the exhibition centres, to implement exceptional measures of inspection and security. The teams are mobilized and they remain in constant contact with local authorities (the Ministry and the Prefecture) so as to ensure--with the greatest vigilance--the safety of the exhibitors, visitors, service providers and members of the media present at the events.

Security guards will be stationed at the entrances and exits of the exhibition centres and at the entrance to each exhibition hall. Security checks will be carried out systematically on bags and luggage at each of the reception areas.
